POLES VICTORIOUS IN GREAT BATTLE

PROBE OF FUNDS IS UNDER WAY

Candidate Cox Is Called by Senatorial Committee to Present Evidence

(By Associated Press)
CHICAGO, Aug. 23.—Chairmen Will Hays and George White, of the republican and democratic national committees, and the treasurer of each committee and congressional campaign committees of each party, today were summoned to appear before the senate committee investigating campaign expenditures. The committee directed them to bring all papers relating to campaign collections and expenditures.

Senator Spencer, of Missouri, today announced he resigned from the senate subcommittee investigating campaign expenditures. He said he was a candidate for reelection to the senate and his own campaign might be under investigation by the committee.

The committee directed Senator Kenyon, chairman, to telegraph Governor Cox asking him either to appear here next Monday or to send a representative to present any evidence he may have to substantiate his charges that the republicans are raising a $15,000,000 campaign fund.

PRIMARYS NEAR IN CALIFORNIA

Senatorial Fight Carries Most Interest in Race in Adjoining State

(By Associated Press)
SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 23.—California voters will go to the polls on Tuesday, August 31, to cast their ballots for candidates seeking party nominations for various offices at the state primary election. Of the several issues confronting the voters, the principal interest lies in the contest among three candidates for the republican nomination for United States senator. The winner of this triangular race will be opposed at the November general election by United States Senator James J. Phelan, who is running unopposed on the party ballot for the democratic nomination.

The three candidates for the republican senatorial nomination are William Kent, of Kentfield, Marin county, former representative in congress from the First district; Samuel M. Shortridge, a San Francisco attorney, and Albert J. Wallace, of Los Angeles, lieutenant-governor of California in the first administration of Governor Hiram W. Johnson. From among these three candidates, the voter will register his choice and the successful nominee will fight it out with Senator Phelan on November 2.

In four of the state's 11 congressional districts there are no contests for party nominations. These districts are the Third, Fourth, Fifth and Eleventh, and they have but one candidate each on the party ballots. Consequently the candidate is assured of his own party nomination.

MEXICO TO ACT AGAINST ZAMORA

Troops Pursue Bandit Who Is Reported to Have Kidnapped Foreigners

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 23.—Responding to the information contained in a communication from the Mexican foreign office, the American embassy at Mexico City, the Mexican foreign office announced that urgent steps would be taken to effect the prompt release of foreigners, including one American, who reported to have been kidnapped at Cuernavaca by bandits under the leadership of Zamora. According to Mexican newspapers five thousand federal troops are in pursuit of the bandits.

(By Associated Press)
MEXICO CITY, Aug. 23.—Friends of the American citizens and British subjects who were kidnapped in Jalisco last week by Zamora, the insurgent leader, are planning to raise the ransom in order to save the captives from execution by the rebel. Rather than allow them to be rescued by federal troops Zamora threatened to shoot the captives, El Herald says.

(By Associated Press)
LONDON, Aug. 23.—The negotiations incident to recognition of the independence of Egypt by Great Britain will take place between that country and the world powers as soon as a final agreement is signed by the Egyptian and British governments, says the London Times. The features of the agreement will include a guarantee by Great Britain of Egypt's integrity against outside aggression.

HASBROUCK CUTS RICH GOLD SEAM

New Find Assaying $50 Appears to Be Widening as Work Is Continued

Tonopah Hasbrouck has struck what appears to be a very good lead, which, to say the least, furnishes the most interesting development of the past six months on that property. The new find is a gold seam assaying $50 which first appeared for about an inch on the 217 level in the main drift. When a shot was put in the roof the seam widened to four inches and later the ore-bearing formation in a likely looking gold quartz showed for a foot, including the rich pay streak. A. A. Bussey, president of all the Kernick companies, and who also acts as superintendent of these properties, arrived from his home in Oakland yesterday and is putting in today at the Hasbrouck to familiarize himself thoroughly with the new situation.

The Kernick shaft is down 730 feet on its way to the 1000-foot point where lateral work will begin to explore the Verdi and Revert, in addition to the regular Kernick holdings, comprising the Western and Hasbrouck. Two shifts are working on the Kernick, sinking at the rate of six feet a day.

Republican Campaign Launched By Great Speech of Chairman Hays at Convention in Maine

AUGUSTA, Me., Aug. 21.—Will H. Hays, republican national chairman, today opened the national presidential campaign with a message of a united party, "without hint of disaffection either in factions or individuals" to the state meeting here of republican workers.

In formally launching the campaign in the "political weather-vane state," Chairman Hays took occasion to clear up the American public's mind concerning where there has been confusion during the last weeks.

This was the republican national chairman's first pronouncement since opening the Chicago convention in June.

Chairman Hays said in part: "I shall say little of the issues involved. It is not necessary. They are being unfolded and made clear daily with incomparable lucidity, directness and frankness by your candidates. It suffices for me to invite your attention to one point of peculiar significance, we have shown full readiness to meet your adversaries upon any battlefield they might choose."

Meat Opponents Squared.
When they concentrated us on the league covenant without the dotting of an 'i' or the crossing of a 't' we met them squarely. When, through their national chairman, fresh from a conference with their candidate, they pronounced the covenant only a secondary issue after all we acquiesced. When the candidates reversed their national chairman and declared the Wilson league the sole issue, we accepted most readily.

"Where next they will land is wholly conjectural. They may conclude to stake their all upon weighing of the relative merits of the respective candidates.

"They may prefer to contrast recent republican cabinets with that which maintains a wayward and hardly recognizable existence.

"They may wish to stand upon the actual results of their eight-year-old pledges to reduce the cost of living.

"They may choose to dilate upon their fresh promises to stop profiteering.

"They may again test their case upon their slogans of four years ago: 'He kept us out of war,' 'Peace, Preparedness and Prosperity' and 'War in Europe, peace in America, thank God for Wilson.'

"They may seek popularity in substituting for 'First in war, first in peace, first in the hearts of his countrymen' an appellation far more apt of the moment, 'Last in war, last in peace, gone from the hearts of his countrymen.'

"It is for their new leader, now zigzagging back and forth from the sinister blight of the soloist of the democratic party to the future presence of its quartet of houses, to make his selection. It matters not to us. Our sole requirement is that there shall be no restrictions. This referendum is going to be more than solemn. It is going to be great, the most comprehensive ever known.

For the end, it will have comprehended every phase of maladministration and every flock of Wilsonitis that have brought untold miseries upon a people who have every right to be prosperous and contented.

Cox Serving Two Masters.
"The democratic candidate appeals to both the Wilson and the anti-Wilson factions of his party. To the former he holds forth the president's platform. To the latter he exhibits himself as an advocate of complete change in administration. Idealism for the sentimentalists, patronage for the machineists—that is his motto, and he offers to the country for foreign use the Wilson covenant and for domestic service Tammany Hall, a marvelous combination of impudence and ill-repute. Upon the highest authority we are informed that no man can serve two masters, but what of one master and four bosses? Obviously with his recognized devotion to the democratic candidate, he is able to hold to both, seemingly despised by the one, not loved by the others. What, pray, can be deduced from the mental processes of one who solemnly defines the Monroe doctrine as 'The very essence of article W. A. (R. H.) 9, like accuracy one might define vacillate as the very essence of small pox? But I have no wish to follow the tortuous road to trait's end—at least, not yet.

"Thus far, but one of the joint asseverations of the democratic candidate bears directly upon my department. Speaking in Chicago on August 11, Secretary Roosevelt charged that the republican campaign fund would exceed $30,000,000, and added that 'such a sum could not be honestly expended.' Three days later in Wheeling, West Virginia, according to the New York Times report, Governor Cox 'caused a sensation and brought enthusiastic response' when he charged that certain interests were banded together to buy the presidency, and that millions had been contributed to the campaign by the American government, said Governor Cox, 'I assure you that they are not, and that the government will be sponsor of their activities. Their checkbooks are ready and open, and hundreds of thousands—yes, millions—have gone into the republican treasury to buy an under-bid on the government.'

Mr. Roosevelt gave as his authority for his accusation 'an item' he had read in a newspaper. Mr. Cox submitted no evidence whatever. Both these men knew that the republican national committee had adopted a plan, which I announced more than a year ago, for financing our campaign by a method of decentralized giving, securing small contributions from a great many, with a limit of one thousand dollars as a maximum for any contribution; that Mr. Harding had publicly approved the plan, and that the committee had readopted it after he was nominated.

Money Charges Untrue.
"Knowing all this Mr. Roosevelt asserted that our campaign fund would reach the colossal sum of $30,000,000, and Mr. Cox declared, apparently of his own knowledge, that millions have already gone into the republican treasury from 'certain interests banded together to buy the presidency.' They thus deliberately accused Mr. Harding, your national committee and myself of being engaged in a conspiracy to betray our country.

"That I submit, is a serious charge. It could be substantiated no punishment of those found guilty could be too severe. It cannot be of course, for the simple reason that it is not true. Do you think Mr. Roosevelt believed it was true? I do not. And yet they have the audacity to utter this outrageous falsehood, denying the truthfulness and reflecting upon the honor of fellow citizens, for one of whom at least they have professed the fullest respect. Their purpose is plain. They can hardly hope to deceive the thoughtful but they do mean to inspire upon the credulous. Frankly, I do not believe they can do either. My concern at any possible political effect of such defamatory allusions, therefore, even when put forth by authority of men deemed by their fellow partisans worthy of holding the highest of honors, is slight. The personal aspects may be ignored.

"What does sadden me is that caustic comments such as this can be spread broadcast through the columns of great journals without evoking rebuke from the editors and leaders of public opinion who control those powerful agencies? There has been no secret about what we are trying to do. I have discussed the matter personally with many of the foremost editors of independent and democratic newspapers throughout the country. I have pointed out the difficulties necessarily involved in effecting so marked an innovation. I have sought their advice and suggestions and invariably have received assurance of sympathetic co-operation in what amounts to no more, by less than an earnest endeavor, to eliminate money as a controlling factor from American politics.

Nothing Is Concealed.
"Nothing has been and, of course, nothing will be concealed. By reason of the enlarged electorate and the greatly increased cost of all things, we figure that there will be required a total of about $3,000,000, an average of about 10 cents per voter. Part of this has been received, in small contributions from the individuals, 50 per cent of whom have never before subscribed to party funds. The larger part of the total amount we hope and have reason to believe we shall be able to raise under the plan of limited subscriptions which thus far has proved successful. If this attempt should fail to produce the requisite sums, we shall so state publicly, increase the maximum, and seek additional contributions. But should it succeed, and I believe it will, the achievement, if I may quote a prominent democratic editor, would far transcend in ultimate and definite good to the country the election of a dozen presidents.

"In any case, the endeavor surely cannot be pronounced unworthy of commendation or even of encouragement. We have not tried to make political capital out of the idea. We have not criticized our opponents for adhering to the old method of accepting the largest contributions obtainable. This is their right and privilege under the existing statutes. Nor shall we, resentful of the positive charges of the democratic candidates, emulate them even so much as to intimate that their responsible officers will use any part of their funds corruptly. Frankly and squarely, as between mutual-respecting citizens, we don't believe they will or would if they could.

"But I give fair warning that neither the republican candidates nor the republican management will take false aspersions lying down. If, at the instance of our adversaries this campaign shall finally resolve into a question of personal characters, we know of no reason, aside from natural distaste, why we should not meet that issue as readily as any other.

"With Warren G. Harding and Calvin Coolidge as our candidates, all we ask is a fair contest; and that we propose to have."

STOCK MARKET HOLDING STRONG

Much Activity Shown in Gold Zone While Tonopah Divide Passes $2.

Tonopah Divide passed the $3 mark this morning with sales of small lots that brought a slight softening and lowered the quotation to $1.97 1/2. This was only a temporary weakness, for the former price came back on subsequent sales and the great leader was strong at the figure. Hasbrouck was one of the most buoyant traders with small offerings that sent the price to 8 cents, followed by sales at 7. Victory said at 12, softening to 11, and Alto was a lively trader at 8 and 7 cents, the highest reached since the slump last spring. Alto is in splendid shape with 300,000 shares in the treasury. The principal stockholders of Alto reside in Pittsburgh and include some of the richest men of that city, so the company is regarded as one of the healthiest financially in the Divide district, especially as it is in direct line to pick up the big orebody of the Gold Zone.

Gold Zone manifests greater strength than was expected after the sharp advance of last week, which many thought would induce profit-taking. This morning the opening bid was 35 and sales were made later at 35. The present orebody has widened to 14 feet with the values stabilized at $16, making a fairly good commercial ore. However, as stated by The Bonanza, this is not the orebody which was the objective of the management, which estimated that it will require another 175 feet to reach. Owing to this distance fresh interest is injected through the belief that the orebody encountered last week is a distinctly new ledge which may be an offshoot of the main ledge for which the crosscut is headed. The latter is known to be broken with rich segments of high grade which do not appear at present.

Sales today made a new record for the midsummer season and the market is without a parallel for activity during any August in the history of the San Francisco stock exchange. The aggregate turnover of the exchange was $12,300,000. The high quotation on the junior stocks were as follows: Dividend, 8; Keystone, 3; Thomson, 4; Belcher Extension, 9; Silver, 4; Western, 3; Hercules, 4.

TWO COMPANIES TO RESUME WORK

Announcement that Hercules and Giant Divide Will Start Work Is Made

An electrical effect was produced this morning in the brokers' offices when the news was circulated that Hercules and Giant Divide would resume operations at an early day. First to start will be the Hercules Divide, under direction of Lee Leftus, and two shifts will be employed sinking the shaft to 1000 feet. The treasures of both companies are in a healthy state. A station will be put at 525 feet in the Hercules and then sinking will be resumed. In putting down the shaft strong stringers were encountered at 240 feet, which gave assays of $30, and when work ceased during the strike owing to the difficulty of getting efficient labor, stringers in the bottom yielded $30 assays.

For some reason the Western Union failed today to carry reports of transactions until after private wires announced that 3 cents was bid for 50,000 shares or any part, and later a flash was received over the regular exchange service to the effect that 4 cents was bid.
